

North American Forensic Entomology Association

Benefits of Membership

NAFEA was established with the primary mission to serve as the professional association of forensic entomologists and those interested in the science of forensic entomology. Since its inception, NAFEA has hosted annual scientific and business meetings and is now comprised of over 60 members. Such membership is impressive. Predictions at the first annual NAFEA were that only 120 individuals world-wide were 'interested' in forensic entomology. Our membership suggests that this was quite an underestimate. NAFEA has been an extremely progressive organization that constantly works to enhance professional standards in forensic entomology. As an organization, NAFEA strives to provide a venue for the presentation of research, casework, and cooperative ideas on forensic entomology. The strength of NAFEA is that it facilitates the direct interaction and exchange of ideas between faculty members, researchers and students in an environment that fosters cooperation and collective solutions to current issues in forensic entomology.

NAFEA is an organization for anyone interested in the application of forensic entomology to civil or criminal matters of law, research on arthropods of forensic importance, or carrion ecology. NAFEA provides its membership with the following benefits:

- Discounted registration to the Annual Meeting
- Eligibility for student travel and research scholarships when available
- Receipt of the NAFEA Annual Newsletter
- Abstract of poster and paper submissions presented at the annual meeting
- Receipt of Annual Business Meeting Minutes
- Annual dues notification
- Receipt of annual membership list
- Annual bibliography of scientific articles and literature germane to forensic entomology
- Discounted NAFEA t-shirts and other merchandise
